ACADEMIC BUILDING

Foreword

Other than your degree, this 1961 CLIPPER is the only tangible evidence of your college career. We who have edited this book have turned the spotlight on many of the events shared during our four years. The true success of our work may not be appreciated fully until years later. At Commencement the impression of friends and shared activities is vivid. The CLIPPER at this time is perhaps most valuable as a book in which friends may write personal comments. As years pass, however, and memory grows dim, dust off this yearbook, settle down in a comfortable chair, and with the aid of text and pictures relive those four wonderful years at Salem.

To you who have started a scrapbook of your college days but never quite finished it, to you who wish to keep in contact with friends, and especially to you who simply enjoy reminiscing, we present this CLIPPER.

PRESIDENT MEIER

The President's Message

It is a pleasure for me to write a few words to you on the occasion of your graduation from Salem State College. May I take this opportunity to congratulate Miss Gertrude Burnham, Clipper Adviser, and all the members of the Class of 1961 who have worked so diligently and so well to produce this timely publication. The Clipper makes available to the college the true, vital, and historical account of your four years of activity at Salem.

During your brief stay at the college you have seen many changes in the curriculum, in the staff, and in the physical plant. Your Alma Mater has grown during your college lifetime and hopes to grow in service, scope, and excellence in the years ahead. While these changes and advances have been great on the physical front, all will have been lost if even greater and more profound changes and advances have not been made on the intellectual front. The capacity for self education is the quality which we hope has developed in each of you. The American education system needs this quality; young teachers new to the profession must contribute it if the system is to progress. The aim of education at Salem has been not only to fill minds with quantitative knowledge, and to communicate vocational skills, but also to awaken an appreciation and develop an understanding of both the sciences and the humanities in an harmonious growth of all the higher faculties of man—the faculties of imagination, intellect, will, and, above all, the capacity for self education.

The college is proud of you and we know that you will continue to help the college in its program for a greater Salem State College in its pursuit of greater excellence.

May I extend to each of you a personal invitation to return to the college often and to become active in the Salem State College Alumni.

Sincerely yours,

Frederick A. Meier

Remembrance of Things Past

1957-1961

"You can do it; you can do it"

The carefree summer days had vanished, and September 13, 1957, presented itself. At Salem Teachers College, the events of the day were designed to orient the two hundred and eighty-five new Freshmen seen scurrying about aimlessly. President Meier, with representatives of the student body and faculty, outlined the challenge that lay ahead for those choosing to enroll at Salem. "Big brothers" and "big sisters" were present to answer endless questions and to guide the newcomers in the unfamiliar setting.

"'Tis my hope to end successfully"

We, the incoming Class of '61, began our first day of classes at Salem with mixed emotions. We looked back to our high school days with nostalgia and forward to our college days with awe. Our minds were heavy with the thoughts of the task ahead, but our hearts were light as we remembered the friendliness that greeted us at the Orientation Day Picnic.

"What are you here that cry so grievously?"

Soon we were exposed to that tradition to which each Freshman must submit—Initiation. We were required to wear brown and orange beanies. "Straighten that beanie," echoed from every nook and corner. We found ourselves clothed in sheets, carrying sacks filled with every imaginable nonsensical object that could be named. Commands and demands surrounded us. Fellow classmates could be seen "singing" from trash barrels in the lunchroom, kneeling before "exalted" Sophomores in the lounge, and marching about the campus in perfect time. Somehow we survived the indignities to which we were so unpleasantly exposed.

INITIATION BANQUET

"Victory brings unanimity"

The Initiation Banquet, held at Salem High School, was surely a feast in honor of victory. Division by division, the upperclassmen stood and saluted us in song. When our turn came, we directed our words to the Sophs and told them that all differences had been forgotten. To celebrate our recognition as full-fledged members of the college, we entertained the assembled throng with songs and skits. The Class of '61 felt that it now belonged.

"My life and education both do learn me how to respect you"

We invited our parents to the Freshman Tea, held in Chapel Hall, in order to introduce them to our college and to give them the recognition they so richly deserve. Parental pride was matched by the loyalty we displayed to our new school.

"The day is yours, bound with laurel boughs"

November 7 was a proud day at Salem, for on that day the Ground-Breaking Ceremonies marked the beginning of the construction of the new Administration Building. President Meier presided; Dr. Owen Kiernan, Commissioner of Education, and Mrs. Alice Lyons, Chairman of the Board of Education, addressed the members of the alumni, state legislature, municipal officials, and invited guests present. The Freshman Class was represented by its Class Officers.

According to Freud

Look, Ma, I'm pinned!

Are you sure the Four Freshman started like this?

Will they keep until the dance Friday?

If only we were 21

Oh yeah!

FRESHMAN CLASS OFFICERS

Vice President, T. DiSalvo; President, S. Bolognese;
Treasurer, M. Dolfe; Secretary, M. DeSimone.

"Know the cause why music was ordained"

Our one social endeavor was the Freshman Dance. Hours were spent making the flowers that were to adorn the walls of Chapel Hall. Music, dancing feet, high spirits, and new-found friends combined to make the evening a huge success.

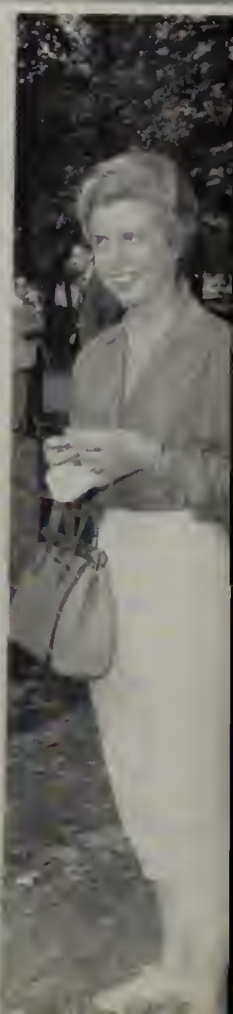

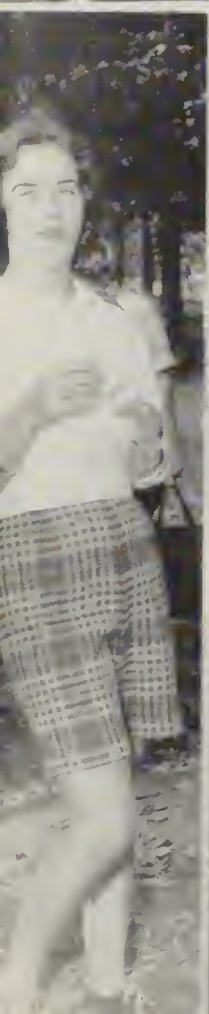

"If she be fair 'tis the better for her"

In March at the WAA Formal, the girls of the Freshman Class were not overlooked when the Queen and her Court were announced. Everyone present agreed that Patricia Keating and Barbara Prevost deserved the recognition they received.

"I pirthee, let me be better acquainted with thee"

The remainder of the year was devoted to acquainting ourselves with the day-to-day routines—the class schedule, the concentrated hours of note-taking, the ins and outs of the smoker, the hours of homework. We became an integral part of the social life of the college by attending the dances and frat parties designed for student relaxation.

"Double, double, toil and trouble"

As Freshmen, we were introduced for the first time to final exams. Although most of us wished there were other means of evaluating our progress, survival of two encounters gave us the confidence necessary to carry us through the next three years.

"My intents are fix'd and will not leave me"

Leaving behind the year in which we were beginners, the year when everything was new, we evolved into Sophomores. Exciting discoveries lay before us. We acquired a positiveness—we knew where we were going and why.

SOPHOMORE CLASS OFFICERS

*Treasurer, F. Croteau; Secretary, M. DeSimone;
Vice President, R. Brown; President, Al Angelli.*

"The appurtenance of welcome is fashion and ceremony"

Our first official function as Sophomores was to make the Freshmen feel at home on the Salem Campus. The committee entrusted with this most important responsibility was headed by Rosemarie Moscato and Dick Brown. To insure that no Freshman was overlooked, the committee devised a unique mode of attire to be worn by each of the underclassmen. Thanks to our conscientious effort, no Freshman felt ignored nor forgotten. To show their gratitude, the Class of '62 presented Rosie with an oversized stuffed animal and serenaded the Sophomores with songs of praise at the Initiation Banquet.

"Grief well ended"

School spirit abounded in October when representatives of the Class of '61 visited West Point to cheer the soccer team in their game with the plebes. A loss did not dampen spirits, for our boys, Toni DiSalvo, George Roach, and Sam Bolognese, played superbly. West Point proved a popular destination for weekend excursions by many of the females in our class.

HOLLY BALL QUEEN

"She looked yesternight fairer than ever"

At the Christmas Dance, Geri Regan was crowned Holly Queen, and her court included three other Sophomores, Janet Juel, Bobbi Keating, and Mary Devarenne. Beauty laurels for members of our class were again bestowed at the WAA Formal when Alice Raymond and Bobbi Keating were chosen to serve on the Queen's Court.

"We turned o'er many books together"

Our Sophomore year saw the opening of the new library. We took an active part in moving from the old into the new. Will you ever forget the time spent as a link in a human chain passing books from hand to hand? We proved to be a class that did not let opportunity pass us by, for we took advantage of the situation to practice the songs for our show.

SHOW BUSINESS

"When my cue comes, call me, and I will answer"

The highlight of the Sophomore year was the Sophomore Show. It began with a bare stage, a few scripts, and a date that comes rapidly closer. Gradually, the script was selected, the props collected, the costumes designed, and the acts rehearsed. St. Michael's Hall was the scene of many weeks of work and fun. Finally the lights dimmed, the curtain opened, and the show was on. "Show Business," written and directed by Rosemarie Moscato, was a series of sketches depicting the history of the music of the United States. The rave reviews that followed the two performances were warmly received by the cast.

"Your purpose is both good and reasonable"

With two year's know-how behind us and with an ever-so-slight awe of the caps and gowns to come, we became Juniors. A new and more intent seriousness entered the scene, for many of us had our first experience before a classroom. It was a sobering experience, and many of our inadequacies were pin-pointed for future improvement.

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS

Vice President, R. Brown; Secretary, M. DeSimone; President, J. Ryan; Treasurer, D. Glass.

"There is a change upon you"

An expansion of building space affording larger and more adequate facilities to accommodate the ever-increasing student body greeted us as

Juniors. The new Administration Building houses an expanded library, a modern cafeteria, a well-equipped gym and a spacious auditorium.

"Young ravens must have food"

Hot lunches at last came to Salem with the opening of our new cafeteria. Not only were hot lunches available, but also hot coffee at any time in the day. The cafeteria became the background for many spontaneous get-togethers, with conversation ranging from the most mundane to the most intellectual subjects. An occasional strain of vocal music filled corners of the room. Many of us found the cafeteria an escape from the noise and smoke of the lounge.

"Knowing I lov'd books, be furnished me"

The new library with its atmosphere conducive to study was a welcomed change on the campus. The spacious reading room, the enforced silence, and the additional volumes offered the proper facilitation of study.

"They are merry folks who give pleasure"

The first All College Show was held in the new auditorium in April. Students from each class contributed acts to brighten the evening, but the students had strong competition from the faculty, who had their own ideas about how to capture an audience's favor. It was unanimously decided that the faculty offerings were the highlight of the evening.

"I've taken my fun where I've found it"

The week of May 16 was devoted to socializing and gay good times. The rain could not dampen the high spirits that accompanied us to the picnic held at Lebel's Grove, nor could distance discourage the class from traveling to Boston to enjoy an evening of music at Symphony Hall or an evening of laughs at the Circus. The Junior Prom, held at the Andover Country Club, was a fitting climax for a fun-filled Junior Week. Highlight of the evening was the selection of the Queen of the Prom—Anita Lument.

"Play up! play up! and play the game"

A new sport was initiated at Salem. Through the diligent efforts of Elliott Knight, the Student Council, and other sports enthusiasts, ice hockey became a major competitive sport at the college.

"She looks a queen"

Our class was again distinguished because of the honors received by its females. Barbara Keating was named Campus Queen; Sheila Monahan and Rosemarie Moscato served as members of the Queen's Court at the WAA Formal.

MISS ANITA LUMENTI

"The secret of success is constancy to purpose"

And then we were Seniors. Exams had been braved for three years, but our final hurdle lay before us. We started the year off in a storm of activity. Hurricane Donna delayed the opening of college. The effects of the storm were not in evidence at the Council Outing, held the next day at Forest River Park. As we Seniors realized that this was to be our last outing we looked at the Freshmen, envying the adventurous four years that lay ahead of them.

COUNCIL OUTING

"A name and also an omen"

Salem State College! Although it will require time to become accustomed to the sound, we shall be graduates of Salem State College. In September, 1957, we entered Salem Teachers College, which offered degrees only in Education. With a change in name came additional aspirations for our Alma Mater. Degrees in Business Administration and Liberal Arts would soon be offered.

"The poetry of the foot"

The annual CLIPPER Hoedown saw Joe Perkins once again supplying the music, while we supplied the square dancing. Commands of "Swing your partner" and "Dossy-dos" caused dancing feet to fly.

"Skill to do comes of doing"

After weeks of practice teaching, we supposed ourselves qualified to speak authoritatively on the art of teaching. Speak we did—endlessly. Anecdotes were told and retold. Undergraduate idealism shone like a guiding star as we cured the ills of education in our little talks.

"A good play needs no epilogue"

Our Senior year saw members of our class, Leo Martin, Tom Larkin, Carolyn Shea, Jerry Carrier, and Al Belanger, participate in the first serious endeavor of the Dramatic Club. Under the direction of Mr. Callan, Arthur Miller's play, The Crucible, was performed and highly acclaimed. The colonial costumes and furnishings provided authenticity for this drama dealing with witchcraft in seventeenth-century Salem.

THE CRUCIBLE

"When shall all men's good, be each man's rule?"

In the spring of our Senior Year, Carl DeSuze and Rojas Santamarina delivered two very timely messages on world affairs to the student body. Mr. DeSuze thrilled his audience by showing slides of the Congo uprising and by his inspiring commentary on the implications of the event. Senor Santamarina held his listeners spellbound as he predicted the forthcoming uprising in Cuba by patriots who felt betrayed by Castro.

CLIPPER HOEDOWN

"As good to be out of the world as out of the fashion"

Many Seniors, both male and female, displayed hidden talent at the Senior Fashion Show. Our amateur models proved to be professional in their performance. Proof of this evaluation was the assertion by Morton's and Kennedy's that their clothes were beautifully modeled. Dianne Glass and Maureen Coughlin did a fine job in organizing the show, which included acts by various members of the Senior Class.

"An assemblage of the learned"

The members of the Senior Class marched solemnly into the Auditorium on May 11 to participate in Investiture Ceremonies. President Meier was present to cap the Seniors and to give an inspiring address. Each of the Seniors proudly displayed his cap and gown as he walked across the platform to receive the symbolic rose. Attired in their newly acquired robes, the Class of '61 joined together to sing the "Alma Mater."

"I'll note you in my book of memory"

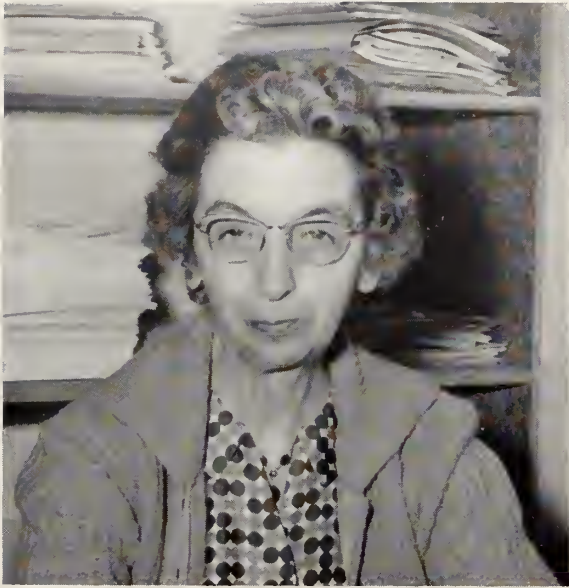

A special space on the bookshelves of each college graduate is reserved for his class yearbook, for it is the record of four important and happy years of his life. Dedication of the CLIPPER, on May 23 marked the occasion when the CLIPPER Staff offered the results of their efforts to their fellow classmates in the form of a carefully prepared book highlighting the significant events from the four years spent together.

"Act well your part, there all the honor lies"

Who can adequately describe the emotions we felt on June 7? On that busy day, we participated in many events heralding our graduation. First came Last Assembly, presided over by the Class Vice President, Al Angelli. The Class then adjourned to the Hotel Hawthorne for the annual Senior Luncheon. Next came the traditional Ivy Exercises. Following the planting of the ivy by the Senior Class President Vinnie McGrath and Junior Class President, Dick Williams, and the Ivy Oration by Irma Weston, the Class retired to the gym, where joined by parents and friends, they enjoyed a Tea and Reception.

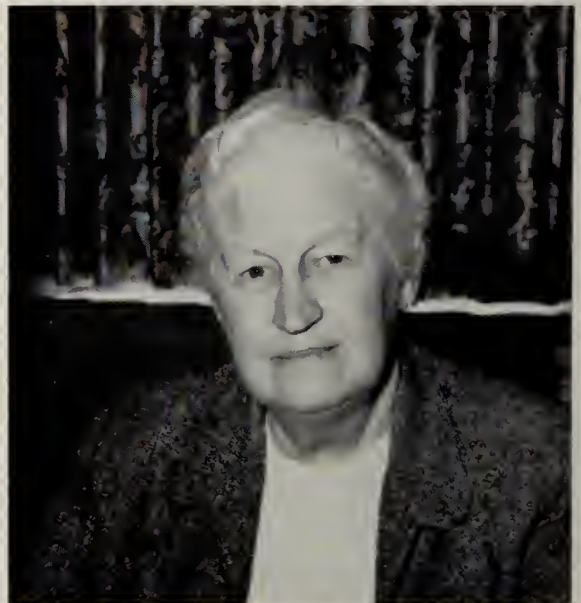

"THE BEST OF FRIENDS MUST PART"

MISS MILDRED STONE

It was with regret that we received the announcement of the retirement of Miss Mildred Stone, Chairman of the Mathematics Department, and Miss Mira Wallace, Chairman of the Physical Education Department. Years of devoted service at Salem State College have earned them the respect of the entire student body. We sincerely express wishes for long years of happiness in the future.

MISS MIRA WALLACE

"Join in a measure expressive of pleasure"

Sidney Hill Country Club in Brookline was the scene of the Senior Reception held on June 8. This gala event marked the final social event on our college calendar. Not only did it afford the participants an enjoyable evening of dining and dancing, but also it provided an opportunity to strengthen old friendships. The favors received by each couple will serve as reminders of all our happy times spent together and of all our many friends acquired at Salem.

"What is past is prologue"

Baccalaureate and Commencement Exercises, June 11, 1961. Bill Lee distinguished himself as the first Senior soloist at Baccalaureate, singing This Is My Country. To the central figures, the members of the Class of '61, the Commencement Exercises marked both an end and a beginning. They stamped finis to one chapter and provided a blank page for the next. As we listened intently to the words of Isabel Jahnle, valedictorian; Winnifred Bennett, salutatorian; and Edward Kennedy, Commencement Day speaker, we grasped the seriousness of the responsibility that faces us as teachers in America. What is to come we do not know, but as our reminiscence comes to an end, we know what has been was good.

*"When time who steals our years away
Shall steal our pleasures too,
The mem'ry of the past will stay
And balf our joys renew."*
